Dear Sir

Birmingham Development Plan 2031

I was one of a number of people who sent in objections to the above plan. I was very disappointed to learn that not one of the nearly 6,000 objections has been taken into consideration by Birmingham City Council and that the Plan has been submitted unchanged.

I feel that a Consultation process that does not listen to local people who have knowledge and concerns about the Development Plan is unsound. The Consultation process itself was extremely difficult to understand and participate in, which makes me think that, had it been easier, many more people would have sent in comments. Unfortunately, it seems as though no amount of comments or objections would have made any difference.

I hope the Inspector will be able to look into this at the Public Examination.

Yours faithfully

RP R I Turner
