Birmingham City Council declares major incident

Birmingham City Council has today declared a major incident to address the impact of the waste service industrial action.

The council has a contingency plan using our limited resources to collect from all properties in the city once a week, but actions on the picket line have prevented us from doing this.

The daily blocking of our depots by pickets has meant that we cannot get our vehicles out to collect waste from residents. Often, we can only get out one vehicle out per hour.

This has meant that to date around 17,000 tonnes of waste remains uncollected across the city.

This has led to rising concerns of risks to public health and damage to our environment.

The council is already working to an emergency plan; declaring a major incident will initially allow the council to:

- Quickly increase the availability of street cleansing and fly-tip removal with an additional 35 vehicles and crews around the city.
- Work with partners to better manage the risks the city is facing, including health and fire risks and allow for increased data and intelligence sharing. Initially this will be focussed upon support to allow our vehicles to safely exist and enter our depots on time.
- Allow the council to explore what further support is available from neighbouring authorities and government to assist us in managing the situation.

Councillor John Cotton, leader of Birmingham City Council, said: "It's regrettable that we have had to take this step, but we cannot tolerate a situation that is causing harm and distress to communities across Birmingham.

"I respect the right to strike and protest, however actions on the picket line must be lawful and sadly the behaviour of some now means we are seeing a significant impact on residents and the city's environment.

"Unless we declare a major incident and deploy the waste service's contingency plan, then we would be unable to clear the backlog of waste on the streets or improve the frequency of collections.

"I want to thank residents for their continued patience under difficult circumstances and the community groups who have been working hard within their communities to help with clear-up.

"I would reiterate that we have made a fair and reasonable offer to our workers which means none of them have to lose any money and I would urge Unite to reconsider their position."

The council usually deploys around 200 vehicles over 8-hour daily shifts. Our contingency allows 90 vehicles per day but because of pickets blocking depots they are deployed much later and therefore for shorter working periods.

Normally we would make well over 500,000 collections per week. Our strike contingency would mean 360,000 but due to the blockade of depots we are doing far below this.

- Our waste collection rate against our reduced service plan (one single collection per property / week) has declined from 87% in the week of 10th March, to 64% in the week of 17th March, to 17% in the week of 24th March.
- The daily rate of accumulation of uncollected waste in the city has increased from 483 tonnes per day in the week of 10th March, to 655 tonnes per day in the week of 17th March, to almost 900 tonnes per day in the week of 24th March.
- We estimate there are now over 17,000 tons of uncollected rubbish in the city.

Notes to editors –

Our contingency arrangements include:

- We are now running a significantly reduced service to maintain a single weekly collection to each property in the city to maintain public health and safety.
- We have suspended recycling, green waste, bulky waste and paused the introduction of food waste collection.
- We have increased the opening hours of our household waste recycling centres. We will now look to increase these hours further to increase capacity.
- We have increased the availability of our Mobile Household Waste collection vehicles from five to seven days a week.
- We are increasing caretaking capacity for BCC tower blocks to avoid the build-up of refuse and improve fire safety.
- We have established a multi-agency response with key partners including police to share information and ensure we can deploy our vehicles on time from our depots

21st May 2025

Dear DLA,

Birmingham City Council and Unite the Union – Ongoing Industrial Dispute

We write in response to your letter dated 19 May 2025 on behalf of our clients Unite the Union (Unite) and Mr Randle.

In the very short time available in which you have asked us to respond we have understandably not been able to address all the allegations you have made about events that have occurred on the picket line since 1 May 2025. Please be aware however that there are a number of points we will want make in regard to those allegations, which are not characterised accurately, in further correspondence. Our client's rights are reserved.

You already have our position in regard to the earlier incidents that predate 1 May 2025 that are once again repeated in your latest letter. We will also address these allegations in subsequent correspondence when we complete our review of the CCTV footage. As an aside we understand that issues concerning Mr Masters are being dealt with as part of a separate disciplinary investigation process and we consider that in light of that it would be inappropriate to enter into further correspondence around those matters in correspondence pertaining to these matters. That process should be allowed to run its course.

The purpose of this letter is to set out a basis upon which both (i) picketing; and (ii) protesting can take place going forward that will avoid the need for recourse to litigation. We observe that your correspondence continues to conflate (i) and (ii) in circumstances where they are conducted separately, and those participating in (i) and (ii) have separate rights and entitlements. It is clear that the legal rights afforded to both pickets and protesters are materially different in scope and substance. This distinction is not reflected in your correspondence.

We would reiterate that it is not in the interests of any party to bring these issues to a court. All that will succeed in doing is exacerbating industrial tensions and make a resolution to this dispute even more difficult to reach. We understand further talks at ACAS our likely to ensue shortly and it is vital they can go ahead unhindered and without distraction. It is essential that both parties are given the space for those to progress in the hope of securing a successful outcome.

We have considered carefully the undertakings you seek, and on any analysis they are obviously inappropriate. Unite cannot lawfully be limited to positioning 6 pickets from each of the Assembly Areas identified on the maps contained within your letter for reasons we will address below, and the proposals make no provision for any protesting (as distinct from picketing) to take place at all. As mentioned above, it appears that you conflate the principles of picketing and protesting and do not recognise the latter as something Unite is entitled to organise at all.

Unite has the right to organise both lawful pickets and protests, and the rights of those participating in each are both are enshrined in Articles 10 and 11 of the European Convention on Human Rights, and any restrictions on those rights must be “prescribed by law” and “necessary in a democratic society”.

Picketing. The right to picket is set out in s. 220 of the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992 (TULRCA) and provides that a picket may attend “at” their workplace. This means that they may wait on the public highway at the door, gateway or other entrance or exit of their workplace. To say that a picket may also additionally attend “near” their workplace implies that they are not confined to those locations, but may picket elsewhere in the immediate vicinity of the workplace: the word “near” in context is not a restraining word, but an expanding word (Rayware Ltd v Transport and General Workers' Union [1989] IRLR 134, CA; Timex Electronics Corpn v Amalgamated Engineering and Electrical Union 1994 SLT 438, Ct of Sess).

The Code of Practice on Picketing 2024 (“the Code”) provides at paragraphs 31 and 32 that those picketing are, entitled to explain their case to those entering and leaving, ask them not to do so. If picketing is confined to the Assembly Areas then it would not be possible for any pickets to explain their case or engage with anyone crossing the picket line. This would significantly interfere with and/or emasculate their lawful rights set out in primary legislation, as supported by provisions of the Code which are enshrined under the European Convention of Human Rights. We trust no Labour Council would ever seek to do this.

The right to protest. In relation to the right to protest the default position is that people should be allowed to freely exercise both of their Convention rights of freedom of expression and freedom of assembly by participating in a public protest whenever and wherever they wish, unless there is some compelling reason to limit or prevent them from so doing. Any interference with these rights therefore must also be both necessary and proportionate in response to a pressing social need.

The Unite Offer

For the avoidance of doubt, Unite's position is that notwithstanding the points referred to in your correspondence, both (i) the conduct of picketing; and (ii) protesting has been lawful.

Nevertheless, Unite is prepared to provide the following assurances to Birmingham City Council (BCC). As you are aware Unite has acted responsibly, and has liaised closely with the Police throughout this dispute. It is committed to exercising its lawful rights responsibly and appropriately. The feedback provided by the West Midlands Police to Unite since the protest/picketing has been observed by the Force has been positive. Unite's offer must be viewed within that important context.

The commitments made by Unite are given after careful consideration and having taken advice from Leading Counsel in relation to the relief you seek. Unite proposes that these assurances are reviewed by both parties within 7 days and would be implemented with immediate effect from 06:00 on Tuesday 27 May (for reasons explained in more detail below).

The Unite assurances are as follows:

1. Unite will limit its picketing activities pursued in accordance with s. 220 TULRCA (as distinct from exercising its separate right to protest) to 6 pickets attending at the site entrance to the Atlas Depot, (70172 Kings Road, Tyseley, Birmingham, B11 2AS), Lifford Lane Depot, (Ebury Road, Kings Norton, Birmingham, West Midlands, B30 3JJ) and Perry Barr Depot (Holford Drive Perry Barr, Birmingham, West Midlands, B42 2TU).
2. The 6 Pickets concerned (not just the picket supervisor) will wear High-Vis vests (or other clothing) making them clearly identifiable as those entitled to picket each site. Accordingly, they will therefore be clearly and visibly distinguishable from those exercising their lawful right to protest.
3. The 6 Pickets will not seek to form any blockade or seek to sit in the road to prevent a vehicle from passing through the site entrance if it wishes to do so. The picketing activities will be restricted to the rights explained in the Code, namely, the pickets peacefully seeking to explain their case to those entering and leaving and peacefully persuading or asking them politely not to do so.
4. We note that in relation to past events, concerns have been raised some days after they have occurred. Upon reflection, we do not consider that this is an appropriate way for both parties to regulate the situation. We consider that it would be appropriate to create a facility for BCC to raise any concerns that it has in “real time” about any events occurring (i) on the picket lines; or (ii) in respect of those exercising their lawful right to protest. In relation to this, Unite provides the following contact information in relation to the picket supervisors

- Atlas Depot (Picket Supervisor: Lee Haven. Number: 07447407306)
- Lifford Lane Depot (Picket Supervisor: Danny Taylor. Number: 07838283093)
- Perry Barr Depot (Picket Supervisor: Mike Masters. Number: 07804605933)

In addition we provide the following contact information for Unite employees Zoe Mayou (07525 816 490) & Shane Edwards (07711 347 653).

These individuals can be contacted at any time that (i) picketing and (ii) protest activities are being undertaken. It is hoped this will negate the need for protracted correspondence between lawyers about events that occurred several weeks earlier and instead can be resolved quickly and effectively on the picket line as soon as they occur. On any analysis, this is a proportionate and measured way in which to address any concerns that BCC has (or may have).

5. Other than the 6 Unite pickets at each site entrance or exit at the depots concerned, all other protestors will confine legitimate protesting activities to the Assembly Areas identified on the maps appended to your correspondence at the sites concerned. They will not wear high-vis vests as referred to above. This clear demarcation of protesting and picketing activities is in line with the principles of Thames Cleaning & Support Services v UWW [2016] IRLR 695 in which the High Court made provision for: (i) an “exclusion zone” for protest activity (a geographically defined area where people can protest); and (ii) an injunction limiting the number of pickets at or near the place of work to 6 pickets.
6. Mr Randle will not attend picketing and/or protesting activities at any of the three depots until the position is reviewed further.

We trust you will accept this proposal as both a genuine and sincere way in which to ensure that lawful (i) picketing and (ii) protesting can continue, while seeking to preserve your client’s interests without the need for litigation. These proposals are made on an open basis, and constitute a pragmatic and proportionate response to your client’s interests, as well as the statutory rights to picket, and the right to engage in separate protest activity.

These arrangements will, as we make clear above, be subject to review. We consider this is an appropriate and proportionate way to deal with the matters in contention and ensuring priority can be given to the resolution of the dispute through further negotiations at ACAS.

Unite intends to put these measures in place from 06.00 on Tuesday 27 May 2025. As you will appreciate Unite will need some time to explain this position properly to its members in order to police the situation effectively. As the Bank Holiday is imminent people are away and it will take some time for meetings to be held, and instructions issued so all concerned are clear on how activities are to be conducted going forward. For the avoidance of doubt though Mr Randle will not attend any of the depots in the period prior to 06:00 on Tuesday 27 May.

We trust what is proposed above is acceptable to Birmingham City Council. We confirm we are instructed to accept service of any injunction application although in light of what Unite is agreeing to above, we trust that will not be necessary particularly as we can see no basis for a Court to require anything further from Unite than what is offered here. In light of the case law, we do not consider that any further limitation would be either lawful or proportionate.

We suggest that in light of our proposal which will take effect in 36 hours' time BCC refrains from issuing legal proceedings in order for these arrangements to become embedded. It is hoped that this correspondence can draw a line under these issues. BCC must recognise Unite's lawful right to both (i) picket and (ii) protest and in return Unite is providing express assurance to control these activities in ways that go considerably beyond what is required under statute and in the Code, and in relation to case law regarding the right of individuals to exercise their lawful right to protest.

Yours sincerely

This morning, our comrades joined other independent activists to block bin wagons in support of the striking bin workers. Due to Labour's use of Tory anti-trade union laws, the Unite members are unable to picket effectively themselves. That's why independent activists have taken matters into their own hands.

Join us in supporting the bin workers this Saturday at 9.30 outside the Unite building on Jennings Road, B7 4EH. We'll be marching to the council house to show John Cotton and the Labour council that Birmingham residents back the bin workers!

Unite are providing coaches from London, Leicester, Manchester, and Sheffield.
